

ENVIRONMENTAL ANALYST

McFarland Johnson, a 100% employee-owned, multi-disciplined consulting engineering firm has an outstanding growth opportunity for an environmental professional looking to join a team of respected individuals known for their quality engineering, planning and client service. Position location is flexible depending on qualifications however MJ's New York (Binghamton, Canandaigua, Saratoga Springs) or Burlington, Vermont offices are preferred.

Environmental Scientist/Analyst Perform wetland delineation, ecological studies, threatened and endangered species studies, air quality analyses, noise analyses, prepare environmental reports, permit applications, and present to clients &/or the public, with some travel required.

Qualifications: Bachelor's degree in Environmental Planning, Environmental Science, or Environmental Engineering related field required, with 3 - 7 years of progressive experience. Knowledge of Environmental and Engineering principles, with strong desire and willingness to learn. Experience with transportation projects, NEPA and SEQR documentation and permitting preferred. Strong writing and analytical skills, excellent speaking and organizational skills, with ability to work independently required.

MJ offers a comprehensive compensation package including salary, bonus and Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) fully contributed by the firm.

Submit resume to: employment@mjinc.com

AA/EEO M/F/D/V